12th August 2009

Opening of new show home set to further boost interest in luxury Oakmont development at Congleton

The opening of a new show home from Saturday August 29 onwards is likely to further boost already high interest in Seddon Homes' development of five high-end luxury homes at Congleton.

The show home will offer a first glimpse inside these upmarket properties, purposely designed as 'signature homes'.

An extremely positive response was reported to the announcement of Oakmont, a cluster of spacious detached houses, each with five bedrooms and a double garage.

Seddon Homes Sales and Marketing Director, Denis Maddock, says the high interest is testimony to the superior quality of the Oakmont design, location and specification. Two of the homes have already been sold 'off-plan' and Seddon is confident the remaining properties will be quickly snapped up.

Denis said: "Experience tells us, no matter what the market conditions, buyers appreciate quality products in a good location which is precisely what Oakmont provides."

Set in a sought after semi-rural location, the homes are designed to a high specification with impressive German made Siematic kitchens including a five burner gas hob and Neff stainless steel electric ovens, and stylish Sottini ensuite and main bathrooms. They feature ceramic floors and internal doors made of American cherry wood.

Architecturally of a high standard, they also feature fully turfed front and rear gardens. Seddon has enjoyed overwhelming success with large, luxury homes in the past, notably with its Tanglewood development, near Macclesfield, the second phase of which, Appledale, is now also attracting keen interest.

Oakmont prices are from £399,950 to £495,000. The show home will be open from August 29 by appointment only, which can be obtained by contacting 01260 291 682. For further details see www.seddonhomes.co.uk
